

Primary Methods of Achieving Objectives

The primary method CAVEPM/ACEMPV achieving its objectives is through encouraging a conference and training workshop(s) to be held once a year in association with any one of the five veterinary colleges in Canada. Registration and participation in such meetings is open to anyone with an interest in the field, including students, researchers, teachers, animal health regulators, or practitioners of epidemiology. Graduate students are particularly encouraged to participate and present on their research that is either completed or still in progress.
